The Receiver Manager is the application designed to provide a means to set the configuration for YAMAHA AV Amplifier "RX-V1900" (hereinafter called Amplifier) utilizing the PC as the host control device. The application realizes the modification of various parameters via a GUI. It is also capable of loading the configuration from the amplifier to the GUI.

Yamaha has created true custom features that installers can offer to their customers. Personalize the behavior of Yamaha receivers to the preferences of your clients today.

Features

In the Receiver Manager, the parameters of the similar characteristics are organized into groups so that the configuration for any purpose can be achieved with ease by the use of the GUI. In addition, since the modified parameters are reflected in the GUI in real time, it gives you an easy and convenient way to confirm the current amplifier configuration. It also helps set the parameters that cannot be usually modified by the regular remote control such as TRIGGER OUT.
